

The game focuses on a certain Necarian IKU (Imperial Knight unit), a cyborg construct, devoid of any sense of individuality, empathy, or emotion. The game opens with a very Linux-esque computer BIOS, accompanied with solemn Gregorian chants. A brief bluescreen flicker appears, followed with a CRT view of a human military engineer, craning his neck to look at the IKU's "face". "Hey, Buddy; the Captain of Fourth wants to speak with you guys." The man is addressing the construct as if it is a human. Clearly it is not, as evidenced by the heavy VHS tape effect on the game view.

All cutscenes will be at least semi-interactive, so the player must manually walk to the rail station to the Bridge of Fourth Sector. After seeing many sights along the rail-way (such as human soldiers drilling, Space-Planes under repairs, and other things), they come to a stop at the Bridge.

The Captain, who is an unnaturally tall and slender man, in a white robe, a red collar with rank badges, and a bulbous oxygen gear (disconnected) with a helmet resembling that of a current-day F-35 Lightning II pilot.

He informs the three IKUs and Legion of Human Space Troopers of their mission on the planet below their ship:

1) Don Pilot IKU hull config and fly an FS-62D Spaceplane with carry trailer onto the planet below. Space troopers jet-jump to the surface.

2) Dump the trailer and land on the surface of the planet for reconnaissance.

3) Explore the planet's surface. Record all findings.

4) Retrieve samples of any material potentially beneficial to the collective of Man.

5) Take note of any native wildlife.

6) Determine if planet is colonizable by Man.

HULL

SHLD

4012 CMPS

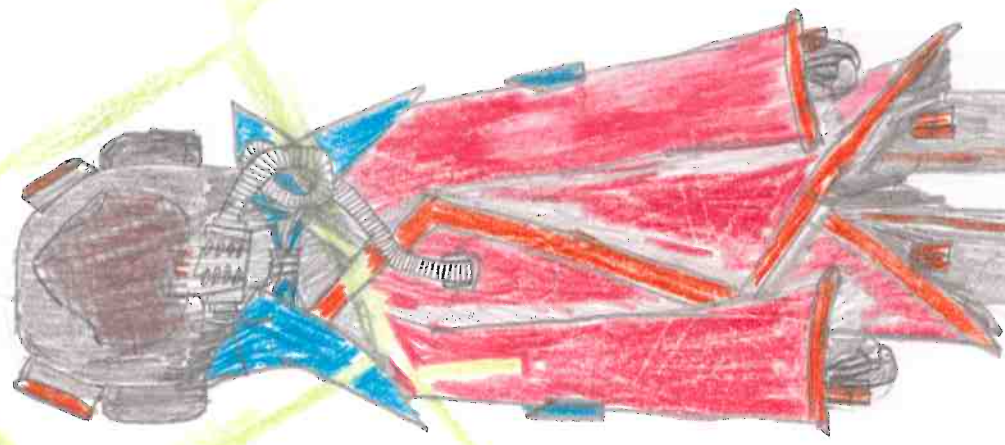

TERMINAL

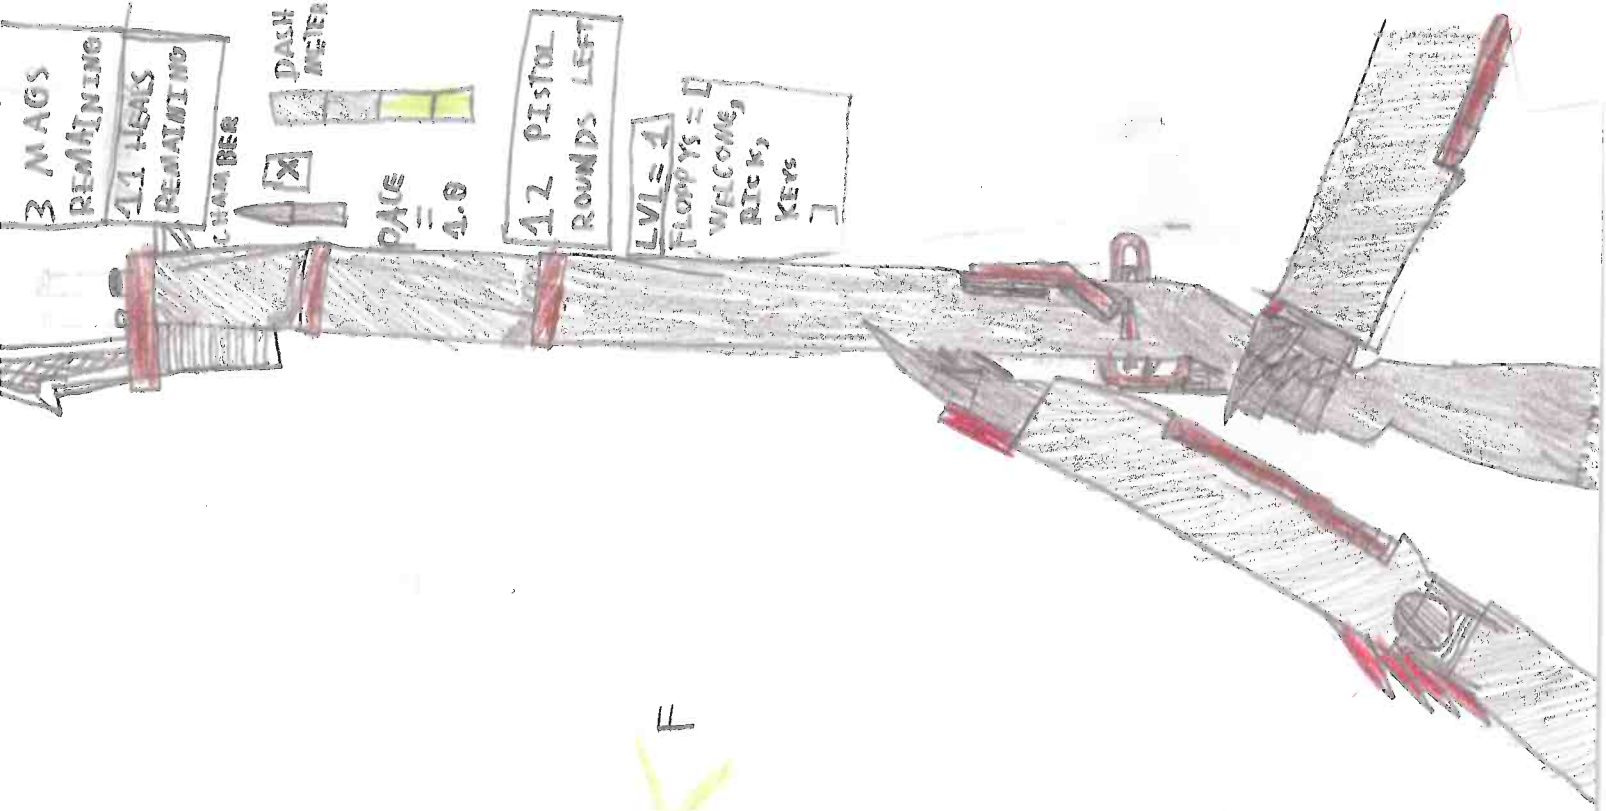

CONTROLS

- W - WALK
- D - RIGHT
- A - LEFT
- C - CHAMBER
- T - PACE
- P - PISTOL
- R - MAGAZINE
- TAB - COMMAND
- SHIFT - CLIMB
- M - MEDICAL
- ENTER - VOICE
- ESC - GAME MENU
- LEFT - DASH LEFT
- RIGHT - DASH RIGHT

0-5
Captain Forward

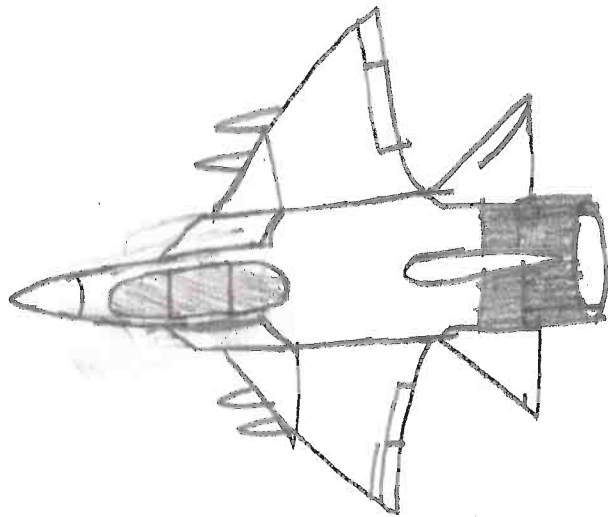

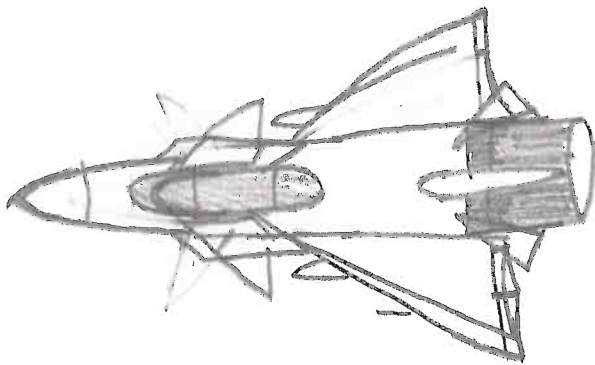

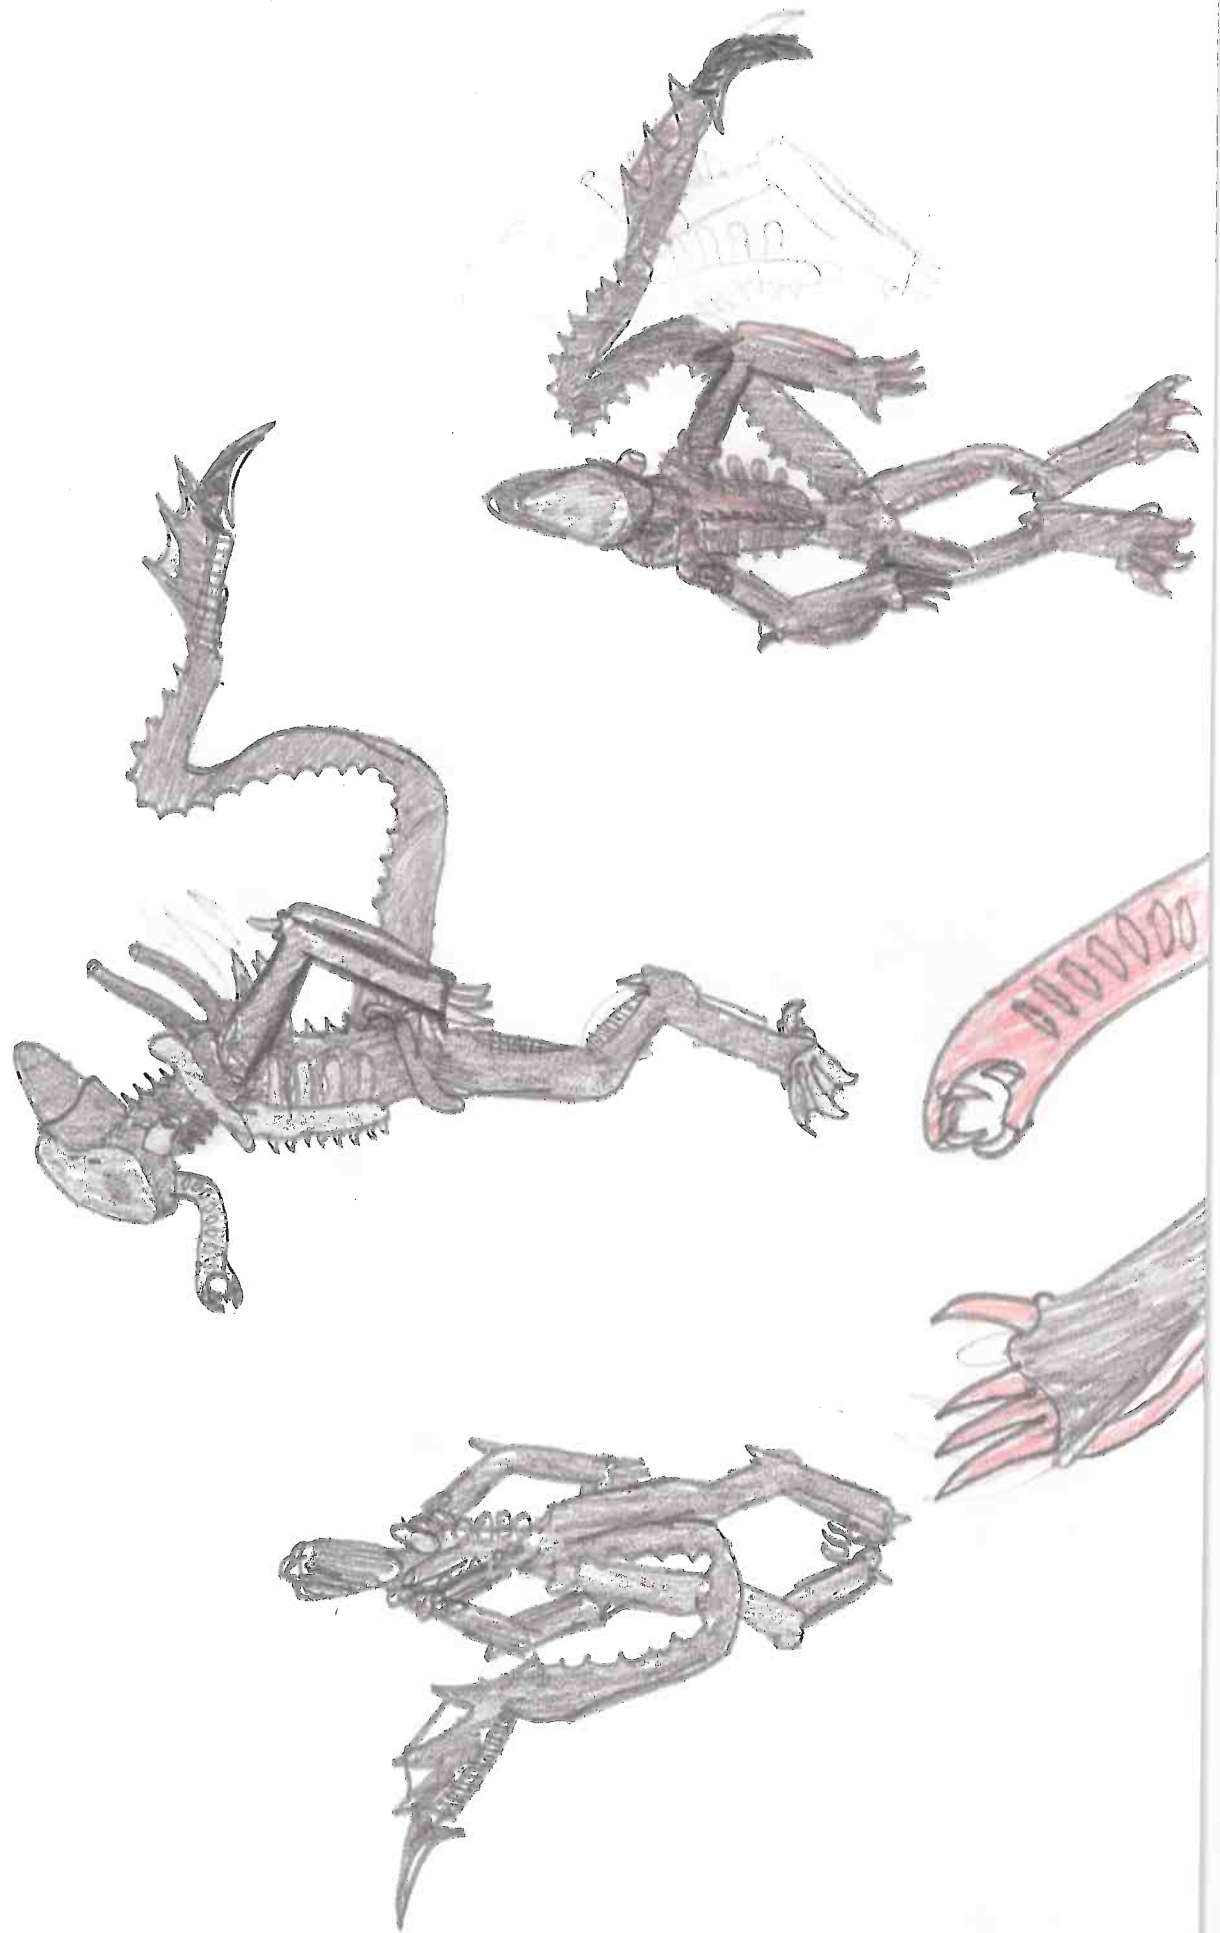

F

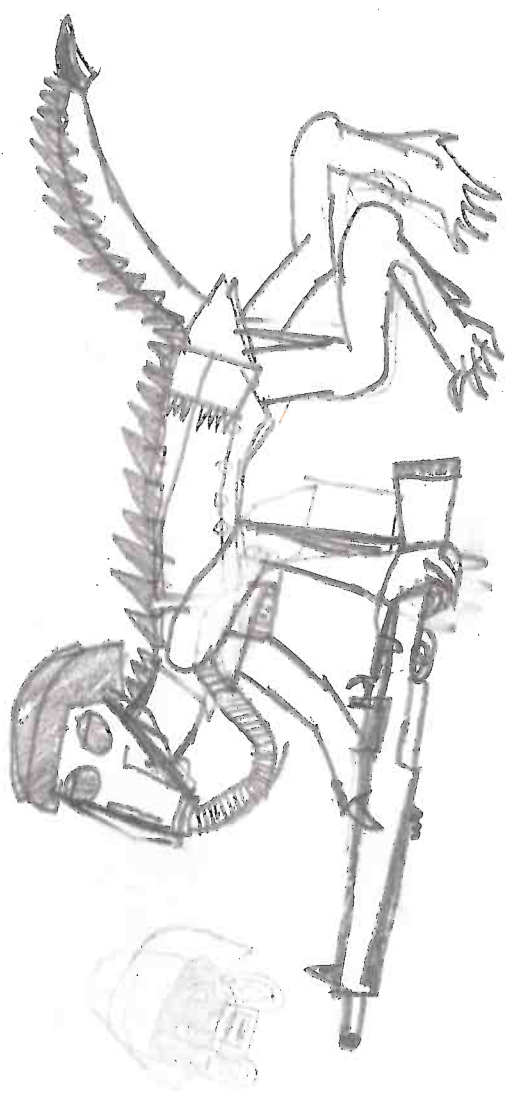

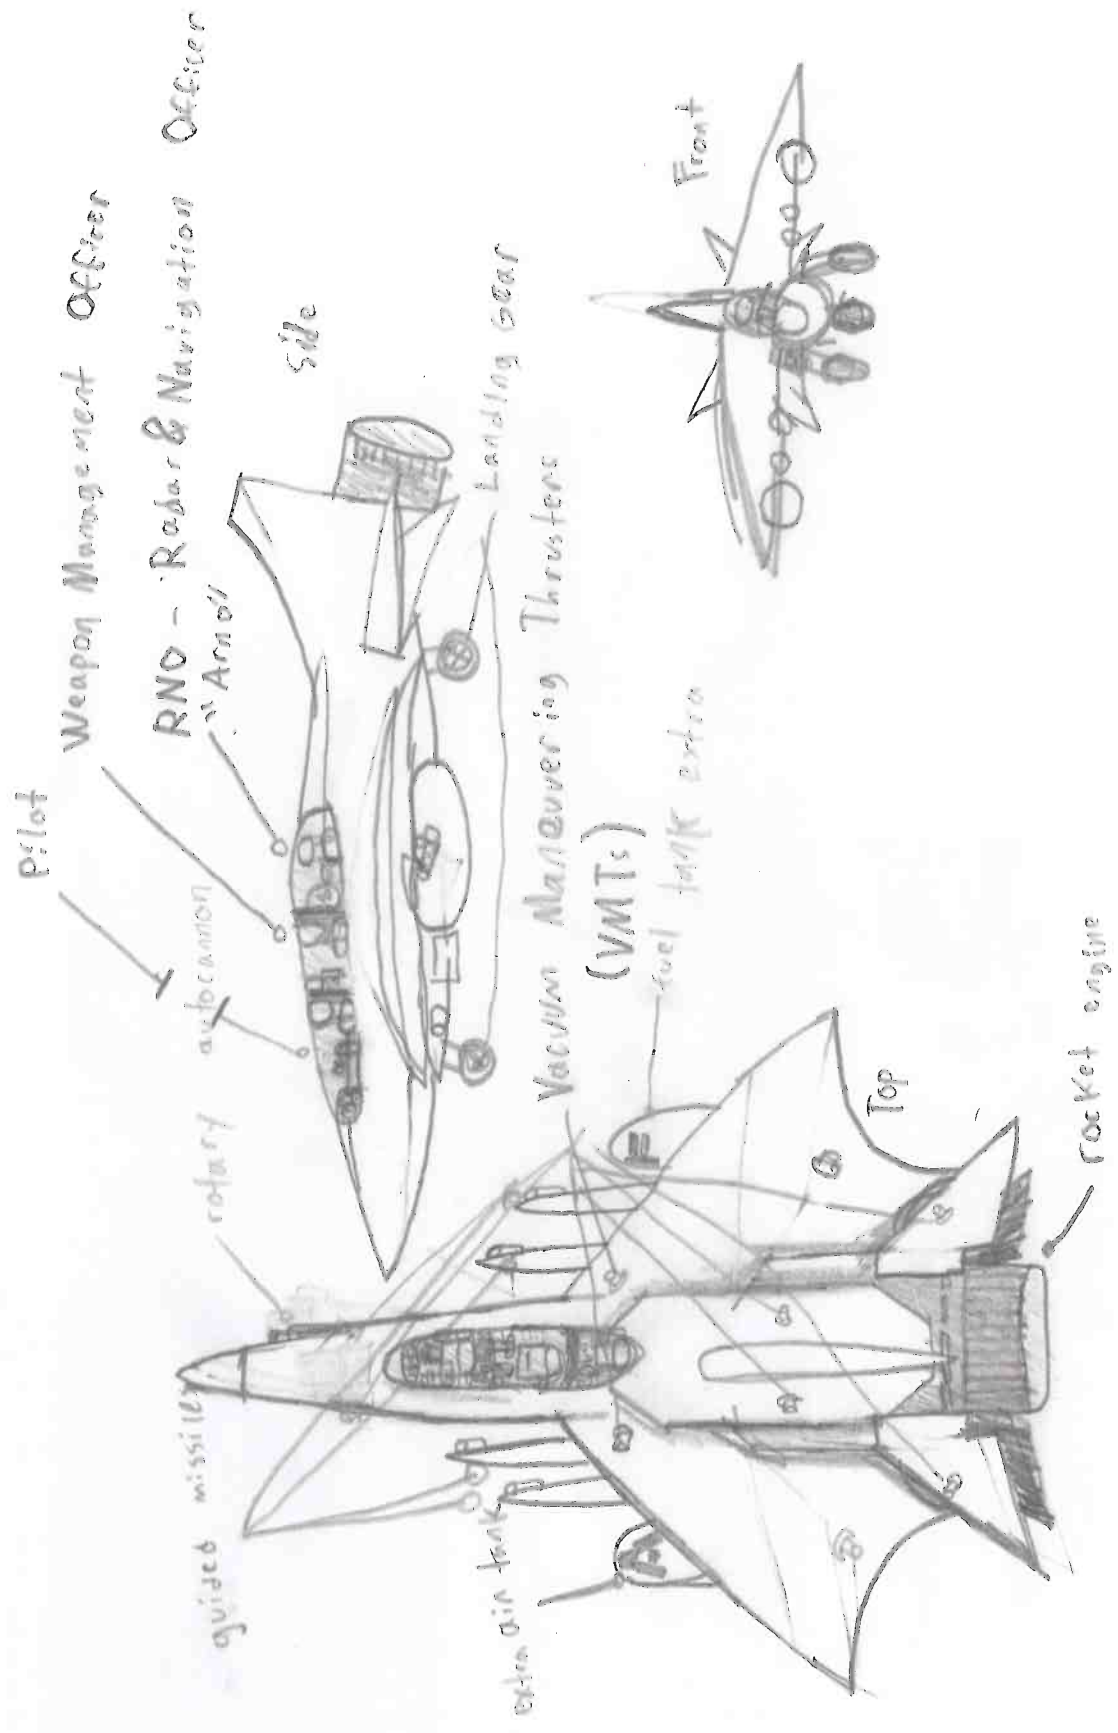

3 MAGS REMAINING
44 HEALS REMAINING
DASH METER
X
PACE = 4.0
12 PISTOL ROUNDS LEFT
LVL = 1
FLOPPYS = 1
WELCOME, RICK, KEYS

Ornithopter

6